SINGING PILGRIMS.

Scenes on the special train carrying Alexandrians to Charlottesville yesterday afternoon as well as those on the return trip of the visitors in the wee sma' hours of last night were spectacular, and as the ten cars shot through Orange, Culpeper, Manassas, and other places on the Washington Division of the Southern Railway it attracted momentary attention, as it passed as a ship in the night. Virtually all the occupants of the train were exercising their vocal powers both going and coming. Every one was in good humor and all enjoying themselves.

To the older Alexandrians in the party the scenes reproduced reminis-cences of midnight rides on trains in the dim past—"When You and I Were Young, Maggie."

We refer to days following the civil war. At that time, Carlin's Springs, on the Washington and Old Dominion Line, five or six miles from this city, in Alexandria county, was a popular excursion resort. It often required long trains to transport excursionists, and the few passenger coaches operated by the road (then the Alexandria, Loudoun and Hampshire which was in its infancy) were insufficient to transport the many who patronized fire company and social organization excursions, picnics, tournaments, etc., to the resort.
Hence it was often necessary to utilize flat cars. The return trip, on one elongated train, composed mostly of flat cars with slabs for benches, was thrilling—those long-to-be-remembered midnight rides, males and females, sandwiched together as close as herring in a box, and all exercising their lungs, were experiences not easily effaced.

They did not render spiritual songs, however, but "Dixie," "I am a Good Old Rebel, Now That's Just What I Am," and other classical ditties brought to the birth during the short life of the Southern Confederacy. There were on some occasions disorder, and such gatherings were eschewed by people of quiet natures.
But another generation was in the saddle last night. They were singing hymns and, acting upon scriptural injunction, were "making melody in their hearts." There was nothing to offend anyone and not a word was uttered which would have brought a blush to any cheek.

"How good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!" It should always be so.

PEERS MAKE SACRIFICES

There has for many years been an unjustified observation to the effect that England makes other nations do her fighting. We never saw the justice of this assertion. England has shown not only her willingness to fight for her ability to do so on many occasions. This had often been demonstrated long before the outbreak of the present war.

Five years ago, when Germany was preparing to drench Europe in blood, the Kaiser's observers in London submitted a report to that monarch in keeping with his dreams.
England, the spies said, was composed mostly of shopkeepers who were ignorant of tactics. They couldn't fight; hence the German Emperor had little to fear from Albion. The same old charge was made that Great Britain would fight by proxy if forced into the conflict, and would make no sacrifices. The absurdity of all this is shown by a dispatch from London which tells us that fifty-five sons of British peers have fallen on the battle fields of the European war. The last was Lieut. W. Wyndham Tennant, the eldest son of Lord Glencorner, who was killed in France September 22, at the age of 19 years. Only a few days before the death in action of his cousin, Lieut.
Mark Tennant, was reported.

Four Cabinet Ministers—Mr. Asquith, Lord Lansdowne, Mr. Pike Pease and Arthur Henderson—have lost sons in the war, and Lord Crewe

MISSION OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

The session of the Sunday School Institute of the Diocese of Washington this week was marked by an address by Rev. Beverley D.
Tucker, Jr., of the University of Virginia, on "The Danger of a Godless Education."

Rev. Llewellyn N. Caley, of the Church of St. Jude and Nativity, Philadelphia, during an address delivered said that Sunday Schools were not for children alone, but for adults as well.

This is in accord with the opinion of Robert Raikes and others, who were the originators of Sunday schools. No one ever grows too old for membership in a Sunday school class.

Many years ago the late Rev. W.
U. Murkland, of Baltimore, delivered a sermon in the First Presbyterian Church on south Fairfax street from the words of the Saviour as He drew near Jerusalem and wept over the city which was destined to pass through such terrible scenes thirty years later when the Roman armies laid siege to it:

"If thou hadst known, even thou, at least in this thy day, the things which belong unto thy peace, but now they are hid from thine eyes.
For the days shall come upon thee when thine enemies shall cast a trench about thee, and compass thee round, and keep thee in on every side, and shall lay thee even with the ground, and thy children within thee; and they shall not leave in thee one stone upon another; because thou knewest not the time of thy visitation."

Among many things the preacher uttered a truth we all know too well: "Men are not only responsible for what they do know, but also for what they could have known."

Since the close of the recent evangelical campaign in this city adult Bible classes have been organized in nearly all the churches, and men and women familiar with the Scriptures are endeavoring to enlist the attention of thousands who are but little acquainted with the contents of the book of books. Many persons of both sexes mingle with us daily who have not the time to make the Bible a study. The books necessary are not available to the great majority, and those who are apt to teach and familiar with the Bible stand ready to aid all seekers after truth and their readiness to do so should be appreciated.

The entire church might, in a measure, be a Bible class. There are many queries which honest souls would be glad to have opportunities to propound.

As the Rev. Mr. Caley suggested, the work of Sunday schools should not be confined to children.
We are never too old to learn. If we acquire nothing else than a more intimate acquaintance with what has been written that much will have been accomplished; besides the Word will be kept fresh in our minds by regular attendance on Bible classes.

The last book of the sacred canon is "The Revelation." It abounds in allegorical language and figures of speech which often carry us over our heads. In the preface it does not say "Blessed is every one who understands," but "Blessed is he who reads or he who hears the words of the prophecy of this book." Then we will be blessed if we are but readers and hearers of the scriptures. Surely this blessing is placed within grasp of all.

Four automobilists were killed and one was probably fatally hurt in a grade crossing accident on the outskirts of Altoona, Pa., last night. The motor car, bearing Mrs. A. Z. Pote, her 10 year old daughter and a son, and Ruth and Laura Meyers, all of Bakers Summit, to Altoona, was struck by a train on the Hollidaysburg branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad. All were instantly killed, except Julius Pote, the son, who was driving the car. He was so badly injured that recovery is doubtful.

Reports from Barcelona, Spain, psychology at Harvard University, in an address last night before the International Policy Club of the university at Cambridge asserted that he had been reliably informed that Russia and Germany would sign terms of a separate peace before spring, and that after this peace there would be an alliance between Germany, Russia and Japan.

Attacked by a burglar while she lay in bed early yesterday morning, Miss Estelle Moody, 16 years old, of Richmond, was robbed of a diamond ring which the man jerked from her finger while he gripped her throat to prevent an outcry. Miss Moody was sleeping with her younger sister, Lorraine, in a room adjoining that of her mother. The little girl, however, was not awakened until the burglar had jumped through the window which he had entered. Then she was roused by the frantic screams of her sister.

James Johnson, of Marshall, Fauquier county, 26 years old, a farm hand, was murdered near his home some time last Saturday night or Sunday morning. He was shot through the heart. His slayer then fastened a chain around his neck, hitched a horse to it and dragged the body into a secluded spot in a woods about 150 yards from the scene of the murder. The body was not found until Wednesday. There was no witness of the murder so far as is known.

A suspect has been arrested. It is said the murder was the result of a drunken altercation. Johnson is sur-

NOT DUE TO SEX ALONE.

Alexandria Women Have Learned
The Cause of Many Mysterious Pains and Aches.

Many women have come to know that sex isn't the reason for all backaches, dizzy, headaches and urinary disorders. Men have these troubles, too, and often they come from kidney weakness. To live simply, eat sparingly, take better care of one's self and to use Doan's Kidney Pills, is bound to help bad kidneys get better. There is no other remedy so well-recommended by Alexandria people.
Read this case:

Mrs. Maude Simpson, 211 Wilkes street, Alexandria, says: "I suffered from dull pains in my hips and across the small of my back. I felt all run down and nervous, due to the effects of disordered kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief." (Statement given March 27 1912) On April 9, 1915, Mrs. Simpson said: "Whenever I have that tired ache across my kidneys, I use Doan's Kidney Pills. Nothing has ever given me so much relief."

Resolutions of Respect

At a recent meeting of the Teachers' Association of Alexandria county the following resolution was adopted:

We, the members of the Alexandria county Teachers' Association, do hereby express our sincere regret at the resignation of our friend and Superintendent, W. T. Hodges.
The schools of the county will suffer a loss at his departure, but we hope that in the larger work to which he has been appointed we may still feel the influence of his progressiveness.

Our best wishes for success go with him as he enters upon his new duties.

Signed, Grace Rosenbaum, Secretary Alex. Co. Teachers' Association.
